A collage of various people's heads and shoulders, mostly seen from the back. The people have different hairstyles and are wearing different clothing. Some are in profile, some are facing away. There are also some white and grey silhouettes of people's heads and shoulders overlaid on the collage. The background is a mix of colors, including purple, blue, and white.

Flâner

Je marche au long de la rue.
Elle semble plus étroite que d'habitude.
Je me cogne aux gens.

Poétiser

Je décide de traverser la rue.
Je regarde les voitures.
J'ai peur de m'aventurer.

Rêver

Je regarde en haut.
Le ciel me paraît très proche.
Je monte le bras et je touche la lune.

Je jubile.

Un passant me dit de faire attention.
De regarder devant moi.
Je regarde autour de moi.

Je trouve une chaise.
Je m'assois.
La chaise se renverse.

Recréer

Je tombe,
Je me relève.
Je continue à marcher.

Ça va mieux.

oh heartbeat city here we come and happy days count on thumbs and nothin' really gets us down as long as jacki's back in town i'm glad you made it i can't complain
 oh jacki what took you so long on just a holiday oh jacki what took you so long i thought you knew the way the noise electric never stops and all you need is what you got and there's a place for everyone under heartbeat city's golden sun
 oh jacki what took you so long on just a holiday oh jacki what took you so long i thought you knew the way you know i'm glad you made it i can't complain i missed you so badly when you jumped that train oh jacki what took you so long on just a holiday oh jacki what took you so long i thought you blew away oh heartbeat city lights at night keeps getting closer out of sight heartbeat city's on the loose better catch the blue caboose heartbeat city

WE MAKE THE CITY

By walking in the city I help the city become.
It is because I walk on them that slabs of concrete become sidewalks and yellow stripes become crosswalks. Sonia Lavadinho*
